

October 15, 2014

Award winners in AIA Northwest & Pacific Region

By JOURNAL STAFF

Ten projects won 2014 Design Awards from the American Institute of Architects Northwest & Pacific Region.

There were 120 submissions for the awards, which celebrate design by AIA members in Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Hawaii, Guam and Micronesia. The work must have been built within the last five years.

Here is the jury that picked the award winners: Jess Corpus of MSA Architects in San Francisco, Michael B. Lehrer of Lehrer Architects in Los Angeles and Tania Salgado of Handprint Architecture in Denver.

AIA Northwest & Pacific Region also gave Jon Schleuning, a founder of Portland-based SRG Partnership, the Medal of Honor — its highest honor.

Schleuning has led civic, education, science/technology and health care projects in the Pacific Northwest and California. He was an early advocate for the urban revitalization of Portland, co-founded the Architecture Foundation of Oregon and was the first architect to lead the City Club of Portland. Schleuning also spearheaded SRG's research on high performance buildings.

Mahlum Architects received the Firm Award for excellence in design, practice and community engagement. Mahlum has offices in Seattle and Portland.

The Emerging Firm Award went to Architecture Building Culture, which has offices in Portland and West Vancouver, B.C.

Photo by Benjamin Benschneider [\[enlarge\]](#)

Honor Award: Sol Duc Cabin, Olympic Peninsula

Design firm: Olson Kundig

Honor Award: Sandcrawler, Singapore

Design firm: Aedas

Photo courtesy of Jeremy Bittermann and Skylab Architecture [\[enlarge\]](#)

Honor Award: The Columbia Building, Portland

Design firm: Skylab Architecture

Award winners in AIA Northwest & Pacific Region

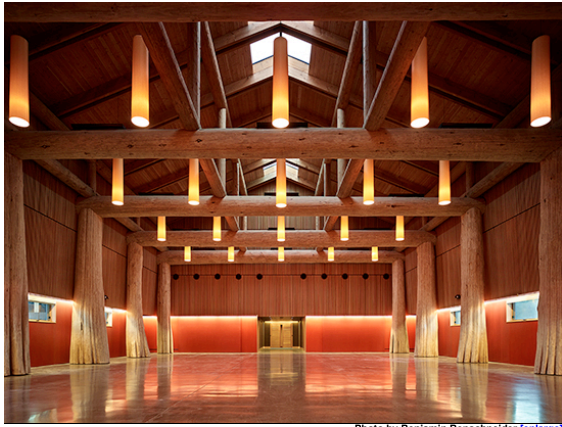

Photo by Benjamin Benschneider [\[enlarge\]](#)

Merit Award: Muckleshoot Smokehouse, Auburn

Design firm: Mahlum Architects

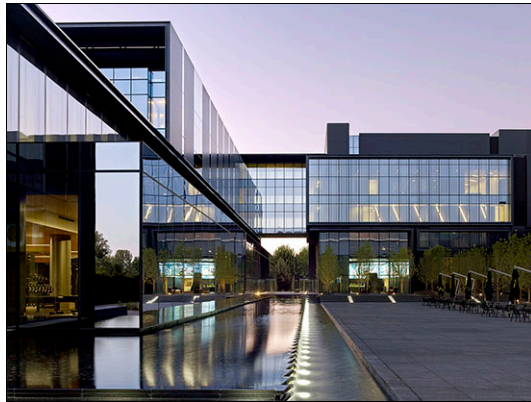

Photo by Jeremy Bittermann/Eckert & Eckert [\[enlarge\]](#)

Merit Award: Hatfield-Dowlin Complex, University of Oregon

Design firms: ZGF Architects and Firm151

Photo by Jeremy Bittermann [\[enlarge\]](#)

Citation Award: Arthouse Student Housing, Portland

Design firms: Lever Architecture and LRS Architects

Photo by Nic Lehoux [\[enlarge\]](#)

Citation Award: Tsing Tao Pearl Visitor Center, Qingdao, China

Design firm: Bohlin Cywinski Jackson

Photo by Bruce Damonte [\[enlarge\]](#)

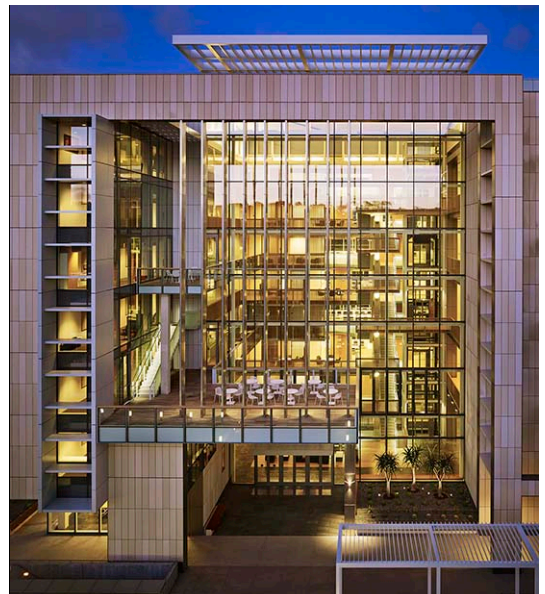

Citation Award: 242 State Street, Los Altos

Design firm: Olson Kundig Architects

Citation Award: Tower House, Portland

Design firm: Benjamin Waechter, AIA

Citation Award: Health Sciences Biomedical Research Facility 2, La Jolla, California

Design firm: ZGF Architects